Privacy Panels for Workstations

Goes Great with Work.®

Benching / Privacy Panels

Benching provides a semi-private work space in open, shared work areas. They allow for collaboration between team members while maintaining individual work space. Add tack boards, dry-erase boards and a multitude of accessories such as trays, shelves and cup holders on the optional slotted design of the accessory wall.

The 42" overall height of the panels on work stations permits common lighting and environmental systems to service the entire area. This reduces the power consumption necessary to illuminate and heat and cool separate work stations. Flexibility and re-configurations are a breeze since the panels are not permanently affixed to work surfaces. Unique joint kits allow for both straight-line and 90 degree connections to simplify new arrangements as your need for space change.
